The News.

Another overland mail from the Pacific coast, which arrived at St. Louis yesterday, brings some interesting Intelligence from Arisonia and Sanara. The stories of the gold hunters are promising enough.

The President's Message is in type. It fills 19 co'umns of the Union, and will not be forwarded, in advance, to the West.

The death of a convict in Auburn Prison, N. Y., caused by extreme punishment, had occasipped much excisement there.

We have some further particulars of the hom icide on St. Clair River, by the U. S. Deputy Marshal. The act was done in Canadian waters and the Canadian authorities have demanded the murderer. The brig Concord, on which the bemicide took place, had got as far as Malden, on her way to Cleveland, closely pursued by the U. S. Marshal.

The Virginia Democracy are holding a very stormy Convention at Petersburg. The struggle is between the Dongles and Buchanan, Wise and Hunter men.

More vestels of War are demanded by the Secretary of the Navy, and active operations talked of in the Golf of Mexico.

The New York Produce Market, yesterday, was unchanged. In our own market, the feeling was better and good qualities of Club Wheat bnovant. What with a frosty air and two or three inches of snow, yesterday, we had quite a touch of winter, and passable sieighing.

RUSSIA AND FRENICA.-The St. Petersburg (Russia) News, alluding to the abduction of the Jewish boy Mortara, says:

Where is our philosophy, where our much-raunted progress, if laws still exist under which each outroges can take place? For centuries men have been prating about perfecting the so-cial system; yet in the heart of Europe, in Rome itself, the rights of family, the rights of parents —not only find no protection, but are not even recognized.

The Milwaukee (Wisconsin) News affects to be incredulous about the truth of the story and them, by which, though absent from each other, to think that the German Lutherans are guilty of the same sort of kidnapping.

FREEDOM OF SPRECH IN MISSOURI,-Hon, MAR OUR J. PARSOF, delegate to Congress from Kansas, attended a ball and supper at Platte City, Missouri, shortly before his departure for Washington. During the evening he gave expression to a sentiment hostile to more slave States .-Thereupon, says the Leavenworth Berald, "the citizens of Platte City felt that they were insulted in their own homes, and would have resented it had not Mr. Passor made his exit in a manner not altogether consistent with the dignity of a delegate to Congress. He fled, and succeeded to placing himself beyond the power and vongeance of an outraged community, by bars and

The friends of Miss Mory, the white girl who was reconsty married to a negro in Ripon, have brought action againt the officiating minister, Rev. B. B. Pareons. His trial came off before Justice Driggs, of this city, on Friday last—there was not sufficient evidence, however, to come in him.

INDIAN CHIEF MURDERED .- We are informed Indian Chiff Murdered.—We are informed by E. P. Royce, Esq., that Chickapouson, the 2d chief of the Minominee nation, was murdered at Ocente, on Fridsy night last, by a half breed camed John Wanposa. The murder was committed at Obarles McCali's grocery, between Ocento City and Stiles. Wanposa stabbed Chickapousen eight times, after which he lived about five minutes. J. W. is still at largo, and we learn that the I ndians have held a council in reference to the course to be pursued, but do not get the particulars. Chickapouson is represented as a large, powerful man, of very even resented as a large, powerful man, of very even and smiable temper, while W. is very cross and savage when in liquor .- Green Ray Advocate

How to Parvent Frances in the Issue of R. R. Bonds.—We believe the great La Crosse Land Grant fraud might have been easily prevented, by a simple and general law, requiring every rail road corporation, to register with the Secretary of State, all issues of stock, bonds and mortgages, showing the name of the person to whom issued, and the consideration; otherwise anch bond, mortgage and certificate to be void. Every such carrificate or bond, as a condition precedent to its validity, should have the certificate of the proper State officer endorsed thereon, showing the register.—Comp. PUPULATION OF CINCINHAPI.-A writer in the Commercial, who beers his estimates upon the snumeration of the children between the ages of enumeration of the children between the ages of four and twenty one, and takes the same ratio between them and the entire population as existed in 1850 and 1857, claims that the city proper has a population of 194,395. Whilst if the subtrbs, which really belong to and form a part of the city be included the number would exceed 259,000. The number in 1850 was 115,-248. If the estimate for the present he correct the increase of population in the Queen City as claimed will be in a greater ratio than that of sup city in the Union, during the present deceds.

KERORIA AND ROCKYDED RAILROID.—We are informed that a passenger train will commence running regularly on this rood on Tuesday next; by which time the road will be completed within four miles of Genoa. This will be an important advent in our western travel, and greatly facilitate our communication with western towns and willages. The Railroad Company have been persevering in their efforts to keep the work in progress, and have thus far overcome difficulties, seemingly insurmountable, occasioned by the stringency of the money market.—Kenosha Zelegraph, Dec. 2. JOHNSON'S ATHEREUM-THE PLAT BY THE UDR-ma of the Corsican Brothers, was presented for the fourth successive time at Johnson's Atheneum Thursday night in the presence of a large and the principal vole, has many excellent merits | mercial College, and we hope that many of there as an actor, and is well supported. The play is quite a novelty in many features. The brothers are twins and a peculiar sympathy exists between they are each cognizant of very extraordinary mental suffering which the other may at the time be subject to, a-psychological principle which seems to be pretty well established by good authorities now-adays, even considerof the specuations of the Spiritualists. The beothers are becomes filled with forebodings for the welfare of his brother. Us feels that his brother is in great trouble, in imminent paril. At last he alta down to address to him a letter. It is midnight and he is alone. He rapidly writes, folds, directs, and is about to scal the letter, when the spectre of the brother appears before him, with a motion tells him that the letter will be valu, and vanishes. Then back slide the walls and before his startled vision the death of his brother, in a duel, is depicted. There lies the perfect counterpart of the one at the table with the life blood streaming from his side, while the victor and murderer stands exulting over him. The whole atraugements of the tableaux, the attitudes of the second s and the surgeon, &c., are capital. There are everal other tableaux, equally good, and they make one of the principal attractions of the piece. The living brother now hastes to avenge his claughtered kin. He knows the features of he guilty ones and overtakes them in their hursied flight, and calls the murderer, who is a most accomplished awordsmap, to stern debute for the life of his brother. The battle is fought over the ground still wet with the recent murder. This death contest is exciting in the extreme, and the fencing is most admirable. Fraternal love at ready in the death rattle, the ghost of the murduel onlists the sympathy in favor of this brother.

last triumphe, and over the prostrate duelist altered brother comes gliding to greet his avenger, The strength of the piece lies in the scould offeets of these parts, but the filling up of the whole plot is very good, and the cause of the first | same evening, two of the police found an indimost warmly. There are some laughable episodes in it, as the reconciliation of the two warring Corsican families, which give variety and spice to the entertainment. The production of the tableaux recalres much of the art of the Revels, and in the personation of the two charactors so well, Mr Rilly shows superior ability. Mr. Froon succeeds admirably, in his character of the cool man of the world. His period selfpossession and urbane hauteur, if we may use the expression, could hardly be excelled. Miss laving we liked better in her air than her elecution, which we suspected of being touched a little with affectation; but her part in this piece hardly gives her scope for enough action to get warmed up much. She has a fine figure and is evidently very capable.

We were glad to see so many of "our best new ciety" present, and we should think that Mr. Jourson aught to be quite encouraged with the good speed of his enterprise.

This evening the play of "Love's Sacrifice" is on the programme with the comedy of "Rule a wife, and have a wife," for an after piece, in which Mr. RILEY and Miss Igvine take prominent characters.

A New Assumption Scheme.

The Newbell House meeting, on Wednesday night, after passing four, or five, well sounding and rather unot jectionable resolutions, directed the appointment of a Committee of seven, not connected with the management of any Railroad, to mature a plan of Relief. As the gentlemen prominent at this last meeting were the same that have figured on previous occasions-with the addition of a few from the "rural districts," who were liberally brought into town by the Railroads, free of charge-this step may be regarded as a formal abandonment, by the projecters, of the Assumption Scheme first put forth. There is certainly discretion, if not valor, in this the public approval, and the more it was dicusa-

We take leave to suggest, however, to the Committee, that they would greatly simplify the question and really help their own case, if, instead of an undigested plan, a vegue and speculative project of relief, expressed in general terms, avoiding details, and leaving al most everything to chance, or conjecture, they should draw up and make public precisely such a bill so they desire the Legislature to pass. Let them give it to us, article by article, and parag aph by paragraph. Then, we shall have something tangible to talk about, some specific, matured plan of relief before us, in black and white. As it is, we are only discussing generalities, and wasting time and breath in unprofitable and simless speculation. Let us hope, therefore, that in the point mentioned, as in other respects, the vet unborn Assumption Scheme will be s decided improvement on the one whichbas just

The expenses of Government of course are to be no less, but really more, in proportion as the macbizery of the State government is increased. We cannot lock for a gratuity in that quarter, and it requires a nices discrimination than the writer is possessed of, to see the difference, upon a final balance, between paying five hundred thousand dollars direct tax The News does not sympathize in the regret we as interest on Rail Road bonds, and paying the

And then proposes to do indirectly what cannot be done directly—this may, by possibility, now be done, for many strange things are constantly transpiring, and he who allows himself to express surprise is called an old fugy, but really it is difficult to see how such a transposition can legally be effected. That the right of taxation exists in the State every one is supposed to know and every one ought to know nearly for what purpose, and if it is to be a question for discussion as to whether the right exists to tax the State to pay the indebtedness of railroad companies and of individuals who have taken stock in such companies, let us have the fair open proposition not cloaked under two such covers as are contained in the article and proposition to

The proportion of cleared and consistence in invituals is much less than last year. The reason is, it is waid, that the President has expressed his disgust at hirsuts faces. He hardly tolerates a beard and cannot abide a mustache. The courtiers conservently begin to shave. In this judicious conformity to the imperial tatter they follow the historical precedents and traditions of their clars. If I remember rightly, the practice of shaving in Europe originated in the desire to pleate a French monarch to whom nature had denied a board. Having become the fashion, shaving continued even after the cause of its origin had disappeared. Pathetic atories are shout tree of office seckers who have madehorics acrifices of long oberiabed beards and moustacnes in hopes of melting the Presidential heart, and have found, when too late, that even such immolation did not meet with its reward.

Our Railroads, it is said, cannot pay even the interest on what they owe. Receipts from freight and travel are quite light—not sufficient to pay running expenses, keep the track in repair or pay interest. When the price of grain is up, the carrying trade is good, business active, passengers numerous, and the roads pay. All, they, that is wanted to relieve Railroads, is an active market for surplus neclusts. Will shouldering market for surplus products. Will shouldering these debts on the State raise the price of wheat? Will business prosper to a greater extent, because I, who owe no Railroad debts, an forced to pay for those who do? When the advanced ships of the British equadron arrived at Nagasaki, they found a Japaneso man of-war ateamer at anchor there. They are able to make engines for railways or steamships, and they have a short line of railway somewhere in the interior. The telegraph is no mystery to them, and they are skilled at indicating actronomical and philosophical instruments. Their manufacture of glass is nearly equal to our own. The Dutch language is spoken by numbers, and some have even learned flugilsh. Japanese organizations and engineers command their war vessels, of which three are stoamers. They show every disposition to seize and adopt the discoveries made by European science. They are represented by their recent victions to be not merely a progressive, but "go abead" paople.

The Hughes Frinting Telegraph.

We were much gratified resteriary, says the London News of Nov. 12, by witnessing the working of Professor Hughes' Frinting Telegraph through the Australian and Tasmanian Cable, manniactured by Mr. Henly. Nothing could be more satisfactory than both the speed and accuracy with which the instrument recorded the messages. The cable is 240 miles in length, and is at present submerged in two racks on Mr. Henley's premises at Greenwich. For all practical telegraphic purposes it is therefore in the same condition in which it will be when Isid in the ocean between Australia and Tasmania. As there is a slight retardation in the waves passing through this length of cable, the instruments are not constructed to work up to the maximum apeed, which the Hughes' Printing Telegraph is capable of attaining. The instruments record a speed, which the Hughes' Printing Telegraph is capable of attaining. The instruments record a letter, stop, or space for every single electrical ware transmitted. Hence the superior speed of this method as compared with all others previously in use. Twenty words per minute can be sent through the whole 240 miles of cable. These are printed in duplicate at both extremities of the line, in good plain Roman type. The render keeps his copy as a voucher for the accuracy of the message sent, while the receiving clerk forwards the strip recorded at his end to the person for whom the communication is intended. The necessity for the copying clerk to interpret the symbols of the message sent is thus sliegethar dispensed with. sent is thus altogether dispensed with.

The best notion of this speed of transmission may be conveyed to our readers by the fact that a column of type similar to those of our leading articles could be printed simultaneously in Tasmania and Australia in an hour. For ordinary purposes this speed might be greatly increased by the use of contractions such as those used by short-band writers. When we witnessed the trial of the printing machine, a very delicate galvanometer was placed in the ofreuit, so as to receive the electric waves before they entered the treatment of the waves that the needle of the galvanometer searcely seemed to move, the defending the contraction of the waves that the needle of the galvanometer searcely seemed to move, the defending the contraction of the waves that the needle of the galvanometer searcely seemed to move, the defending the contraction of the waves that the needle of the galvanometer searcely seemed to move, the defending the contraction of the waves that the needle of the galvanometer searcely seemed to move, the defending the contraction of the waves that the needle of the galvanometer searcely seemed to move, the defending the contraction of the waves that the needle of the galvanometer searcely seemed to move, the defending the contraction of the
